Urban League of Broward County Receives $1 Million Gift from JM Family Enterprises, Inc.

FORT LAUDERDALE (November 29, 2010) — The Urban League of Broward County, a non-profit human services organization, is the recipient of a $1 million gift from JM Family Enterprises, Inc., the organization's largest contribution to date. The donation supports the Urban League of Broward County's effort to expand programs and services through the construction of a 28,000-square-foot Community Empowerment Center to be completed in 2012.

"JM Family Enterprises has been an incredible supporter of the Urban League for almost two decades," said Urban League president and CEO, Dr. Germaine Smith-Baugh. This donation celebrates JM Family's continued devotion to giving back and carrying out Jim Moran's legacy of supporting programs and services that improve lives. "We are honored and deeply humbled by JM Family's pledge of support through this standout gift."

Jim Moran's passion for charitable giving continues through JM Family's generous contributions to numerous non-profit organizations. JM Family's support of programs that help to empower families and nurture children, provide essential needs and promote education aligns with the Urban League's mission of assisting families and individuals achieve social and economic equality. Several organizations have benefited from JM Family's support include United Way of Broward County, American Red Cross, The Dan Marino Foundation, Florida Ocean Sciences Institute, Humane Society of Broward County, March of Dimes, Museum of Discovery and Science, The Starting Place and others.
